

Bird Watching Design Studio Kuadra

The ironic, stylish and green design by Studio Kuadra leads us to observe birds, or even better, the cuckoo, in the woods. Bird Watching is in fact a table cuckoo clock dedicated to lovers of sports ... indoor! Every hour we can observe a chirping sparrow in the house.

An object that decorates desks, shelves and furniture, at home or the office, composed of two cubic parts which are distinct but connected to each other and freely positionable. One element, the clock, consists of a stylized watch tower, in black-painted wood, on which the silhouettes of two birdwatchers, attentive and ready to photograph, are positioned on the "roof". The other element is, instead, the tree with a little bird hidden in the center among the foliage. This volume is entirely covered in MOSS by Verde Profilo, a natural lichen that can be used indoors, even in rooms lacking natural light, without undergoing changes.
